In general, husbandry sector in Indonesia especially the condition of cattle ranch has not yet been exploited optimally. As a consequence, national cattle ranches can not yet fulfill the demand of beef nationally which keeps on increasing every year.

Until 2009, Indonesia still imports around 30%-40% of total beef demand. Milk's production also has not yet been able to fulfill domestic needs in country. Based on that, Indonesia still has to import 70% of total demand.

There are a lot of problems that slow down the acceleration of meat self sufficiency program (Swasembada) in 2010. For example almost 90 percent of breeding effort for cattle is conducted by local breeders, and generally have not yet applied the concept of intensive effort.

Not to mention avian influenza epidemic, mouth and nail disease (PMK) and last is the epidemic of swine flu that comes from Mexico adding difficulties for this sector's development program, especially for pigs.

The condition above draws attention of PT CAPRICORN Indonesia Consult (PT CIC) to conduct a study with title "STUDY ON ANIMALS HUSBANDRY BUSINESS AND ITS PROSPECT IN INDONESIA, 2009". This study is conducted to obtain a clear picture for investment prospect in industrial sector of cattle/husbandry.
